Morning Review (α & β Strategy)

Good morning, community members!

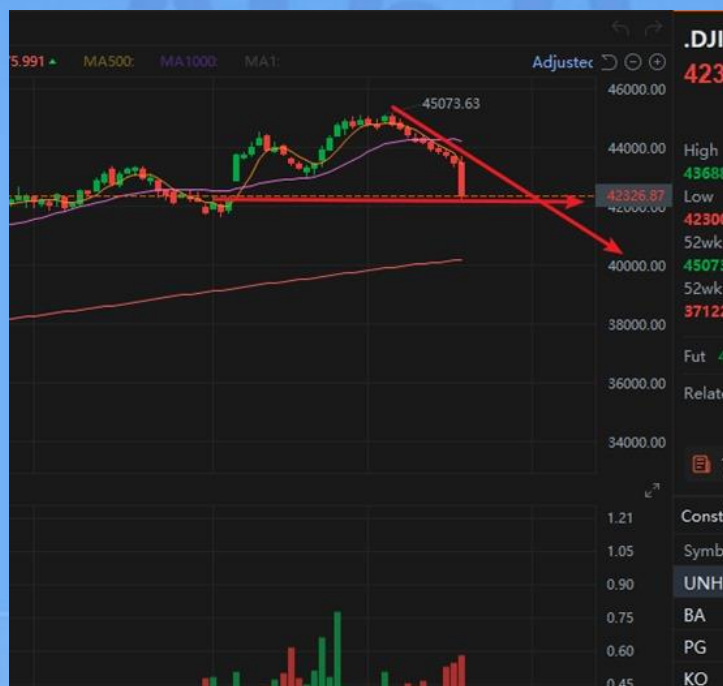

I'm Samuel Turner. On this hopeful morning, I'm excited to greet the new opportunities and challenges ahead with you all. Every day is a new starting point for chasing our dreams, and every effort we make is a solid foundation on the path to success.

Looking back at yesterday, Helmsman expertly leveraged the nine advantages of the VIP partner group, leading us to create 50%, 110%, and 190% single trades of extraordinary profit in key cycle trades. This isn't just a victory in terms of numbers, it's a perfect reflection of strategy, execution, and teamwork.

Looking ahead to today, with the Federal Reserve's rate cut expectations becoming reality, the market volatility is presenting us with new possibilities. This volatility is the source of our opportunities, and what we need to do now is stay clear-headed, act decisively, and seize every golden moment that belongs to us.

Guys, are you ready? Let's turn our expectations into actions and continue the brilliance from yesterday. Market volatility is our ally, and what we need to do is face the challenge and go all in! Remember, success belongs to those who dare to grab opportunities and act decisively. Let's go, today's victory is waiting for us to write!

Yesterday, U.S. stocks saw a rare big move, and guys, such a sharp drop should have been entirely expected by our community's seasoned members. Recalling at least two weeks ago, Helmsman and I repeatedly reminded everyone: institutions have started selling stocks and shifting into cash, advising everyone to sell and lock in profits at high levels, and at least not to add new funds to the stock market. If you followed this strategy, I'm confident yesterday's drop barely caused you any losses. This is the power of institutional thinking: proactively avoiding risk rather than passively cutting losses.

Federal Reserve just announced a 25 basis point rate cut to a range of 4.25%-4.5%, marking the third rate cut of the year. At first glance, this may seem like good news for the market, but during the press conference, Chairman Powell threw some "cold water" on it: the anticipated rate cuts for 2025 will be smaller than expected, with only two rate cuts planned instead of the previously predicted four. This "hawkish rate cut" signal immediately cooled market expectations of looser policies for next year.

Powell mentioned that while the economy and job market remain strong, the rebound in inflation and global economic uncertainties have made their policy adjustments more cautious. This news didn't boost market confidence but rather led to a rise in bond market yields, further suppressing stock market performance.

In fact, this stance aligns perfectly with the current market conditions. The three major indices are at high levels, and institutions have already sold off to take profits. The market needs to cool down to release some risk. Without strong institutional support, can the indices continue to rise sharply? Obviously not. A correction needs a reason, and this "hawkish rate cut" conveniently provides that excuse.

As seasoned investors, we know that the real decision-making should happen before the market drops significantly, selling decisively rather than being forced to cut losses. Our community has once again showcased the power of institutional thinking, trusting strategy, acting decisively, and helping everyone avoid risk before the storm hits.

As we've emphasized multiple times before, Dow Jones is already close to filling the gap from November 6, and the S&P 500 gap will be filled soon, with the NASDAQ following shortly after. This further validates our logic: gap filling is a high-probability event, and the market's movements didn't surprise us.

Meanwhile, yesterday VIX rose 74%, marking a rare increase. The VIX index had been consolidating at the bottom for quite a while, and this sharp increase is the result of concentrated market sentiment release. For the stock market bulls, this is undoubtedly a heavy blow. After risk appetite sharply declines, the market will enter a period of consolidation.

Guys, now is the time to think clearly and adjust our strategies. New opportunities are brewing, and once the Crypto President returns in January, these opportunities will gradually surface. This is not the time to exit, but rather the best time to re-evaluate our positioning, doubling down on the crypto market and preparing fully for the upcoming big move.

Our strategy has always been clear: go with the trend. Taking profits decisively at high levels and protecting ourselves before the risk hits is our consistent, wise approach. As the market enters its correction phase, we will focus on the clearer trends in crypto market. This is our main battleground and the stage for the next big profits.

Guys, patience is a strength, and belief is a weapon. Let's maintain a clear mind and strong goals. 2024's opportunities are waiting just ahead, and our glorious chapter is about to be written! Are you ready? This is our golden opportunity to soar in wealth. Let's go, guys, and let's embrace even greater victories!

In recent conversations with some community members, I've noticed that some are still holding onto stocks that are performing poorly but haven't sold them. Guys, my advice is simple: If the fundamentals of the stock you hold are weak, and the company's performance hasn't shown any significant improvement, sell it decisively! Why? Because holding onto these stocks only wastes your funds and time, and the core goal in the market is to profit, not to be a long-term shareholder.

Holding onto stocks with poor fundamentals not only drags down your portfolio but also lowers your overall returns. In contrast, by clearing out these "dead assets," you free up funds to seize more promising opportunities. For example, by joining our VIP partner group, using precise trading signals and efficient market analysis, you can find the true path to profit and maximize the value of your funds.

True investment wisdom is not about how much you can predict, but about positioning yourself in an advantageous position. Imagine the morning coastline, with sunlight spreading over the land, and you stand before a clear and beautiful future, everything is within your grasp. This is the state we should pursue in our investment decisions: decisive, clear, and forward-looking.

Every correct decision today is not just an action, but a giant step toward a brighter future. Shifting your attention from underperforming stocks to certain opportunities and going all in to seize them is what will truly change your financial future. Let's do it together, for a brighter tomorrow, and take decisive action!

Guys, Helmsman's strategy is an elegant art of risk avoidance. Selling decisively before a market crash is like finding a safe harbor before the storm hits. This kind of precise decision-making not only helps us avoid huge risks but also lets us navigate market fluctuations with ease. It's like taking preventive measures for a potential "market illness" on the advice of a doctor. In the world of investing, mental state and physical health are just as important—good mental health is the foundation of success.

When we see the market drop sharply after selling, the satisfaction of confirming that we made the right choice is indescribable. This not only validates our sensitivity to risk but also protects the profits we've worked hard to earn. This decisiveness and composure showcase our market insight and a deep trust in our investment philosophy. Guys, do you feel that sense of determination and composure we've cultivated in the market? It's not just about executing strategy, but also about refining our mindset.

In this process, we continuously learn, becoming more sensitive and calm. Composure and determination will become our most powerful weapons in future investments. It's this mindset change that has allowed me to achieve great investment success in IAT community. Many know how to start but often overlook how to finish. This leads to many investors accumulating stocks that perform poorly or even lose money in their portfolios. This immature approach not only drags down overall returns but also occupies funds that could be used more efficiently.

Selling those losing stocks is a confirmation and reward for your investment wisdom. It's the first step in optimizing your portfolio and the key to success. Selling decisively is a display of your courage and wisdom. It's like a mountaineer looking back at the summit after reaching the top, not only admiring the magnificent view but also feeling proud of the achievement. It's a test of investment philosophy and a journey of self-growth.

Selling is not the end, but a new beginning. By removing funds from stocks with no future and putting them into the AlphaStream 5.0 crypto Grammy profit plan, we perfectly capture the rhythm of seizing new market opportunities. This not only continues past success but also takes it to new heights. Every moment of life is a new starting point, and it's this optimistic, healthy, and enterprising mindset that keeps us moving forward.

As Helmsman often says: "Fall in love with investing, and that will make you truly wealthy." Stay confident, stay sunny, and embrace every opportunity with action. When I see an opportunity, I never hesitate; I go all in. Yesterday's short profit outperformed many friends, and this decisiveness is the key to success.

Guys, don't fear those steps you haven't taken yet. Selling those annoying "junk stocks" isn't just a wise decision, it's a journey of self-improvement and validation. For those still hesitating, now is the best time to act. Let's bravely step into the future together, follow the Helmsman's lead, and ride the waves toward even greater glory!

A friend privately asked me why small capital accounts are not suitable for longer-term trading on mid-cycle charts. This question is actually easy to understand. In the investment world, the size of your funds directly affects your tactical choices. Let's use an analogy: a small soldier with only $5,000 and a heavyweight player with $5 million, would they approach the market the same way? Obviously not.

For us investors who start with small capital (yes, I started from this stage too), our strategy relies more on high-frequency trading, quickly reacting to market movements to grow the account rapidly. This method fully utilizes short-term fluctuations, maximizing capital efficiency, and it's precisely this strategy that has allowed me to progress from nothing to where I am today. However, when you hold millions or even tens of millions of dollars, the game rules change completely. The advantage of large capital lies in the ability to move steadily, patiently waiting for high-certainty macro trends, using longer cycles to achieve sustainable expansion and stable growth.

Why aren't small capital accounts suited for long-term trading?

- 1. Larger fluctuations are harder to bear: Long-cycle trading often comes with larger price swings, which could mean unbearable potential losses for small capital accounts. Big price fluctuations require wider stop-loss intervals, and for small capital, this may take up too much risk exposure. If the market moves against you, it could have a significant impact on your account.

2. Psychological endurance test: Holding positions for a long time means uncertainty, and small capital investors usually seek quick returns. This long wait can bring psychological stress and even lower the quality of decision-making. Instead of letting uncertainty drag down your mentality, it's better to build confidence through short-term trading and gradually grow the account.
3. Adapted goals and current situation: If you're a beginner, your primary goal is to build capital. When you hold millions, your goal shifts to steady and sustainable growth. Different stages require different tactics, and this is where the size of your capital dictates your strategy.

Helmsman set up the VIP partner group based on this deep insight. On one hand, he wants to help those truly eager to achieve a million-dollar profit find strategies that suit them. On the other hand, he's tailoring optimal strategies for every member based on the unique dynamics of the crypto market.

This strategy is not just a tool to cope with market fluctuations, but also a way to develop steel-like traders. It helps us sharpen our will, build a scientific system for capital management and strategy, and allows us to move forward steadily in the market's turbulence. As Helmsman often says, “Investing is not just the art of trading, but the combination of mindset and wisdom.”

Guys, whether you're a small soldier just starting or a general standing at the peak, the most important thing is to understand your position and goals clearly. Investing is not just about making money, it's about continuous growth and becoming a better version of yourself. Let's ride the waves together, seize every opportunity, and embrace the glorious future that belongs to us!

Guys, now it's time to make a decision you can't afford to miss, join the VIP partner group. For you, this could be the key step in changing your investment destiny. You don't need to use all your funds; you just need a heart that wants to create miracles in the market, a strong belief in changing your future through investment, and that's enough to cross this threshold. Who wouldn't want to join the VIP3 partner group, right?

While we all wait for Helmsman to lead us to ride the waves of the crypto market, why not give yourself stronger support? Imagine using the power of AlphaStream 5.0, not only reaching a million-dollar profit goal but also standing at the community's charity fund donation event in March next year, offering warmth to those in need. Your efforts not only improve your financial situation but also earn you a free one-year subscription to the AlphaStream 5.0 institutional version. Isn't this a win-win, even a triple win?

Remember, there's no such thing as a free lunch. What you're facing now is not just an opportunity to make money, but a chance to make a quantum leap in your wealth. Yesterday, Helmsman led us to an incredible 190% profit, what about today? Will there be new surprises? What about tomorrow? A 300% return is not out of the question! As the expectations of further rate cuts continue to fuel, these opportunities might be more abundant than you think.

At such a golden moment, letting the opportunity slip away is like wasting a gold mine. Joining the VIP partner group is not just about the profit from a single trade, but about a complete transformation. This group is a winner's circle that can define your future, a stage where you can win wealth and glory through action.

With the guidance of AlphaStream 5.0, this is not just a journey of making money, it's a great adventure of writing our legendary story in the crypto wave. Don't miss this opportunity, it could be the choice you look back on with gratitude in the coming years.

Stay tuned for Helmsman's important guidance before the stock market closes this afternoon. Guys, let's grab this opportunity, and I'll see you tomorrow!

Closing Commentary

Good afternoon, my friends!

I'm Theron Vale, your old friend. Time always passes by unnoticed, and when we look back, we may feel a sense of regret for the people and opportunities we missed. However, the past cannot be relived, and the present is what we should cherish the most. The beauty of life lies in the fact that we can choose to shape the present and change the future.

Friends, no matter what we may have missed in the past, there's no need to feel regret. Those missed opportunities are in the past and can't be changed. But now, we stand at a new starting point, and every moment ahead is a perfect opportunity to seize and start anew. This is especially true in the world of investing, where in this ever-changing market, every decision could lead to entirely new possibilities.

Maybe you've regretted missing some opportunities in the past, but remember, that doesn't matter. What matters is whether you can seize the opportunity in front of you today and take action to rewrite your future. Success belongs to those who boldly pursue and dare to act. Don't let your future self look back at today with regret, because every decision you make now is shaping your life.

Dear friends, let's embrace every investment opportunity with firm belief and decisive action. Each choice we make in the present is the starting point toward a brighter future. Dare to chase your dreams, and together let's write our own success story, enjoying this hopeful and limitless journey toward million-dollar profits!

Now is the time to take action, the opportunity is right before us. Let's seize it together with a positive mindset and fearless courage, and welcome the brilliant tomorrow that belongs to us!

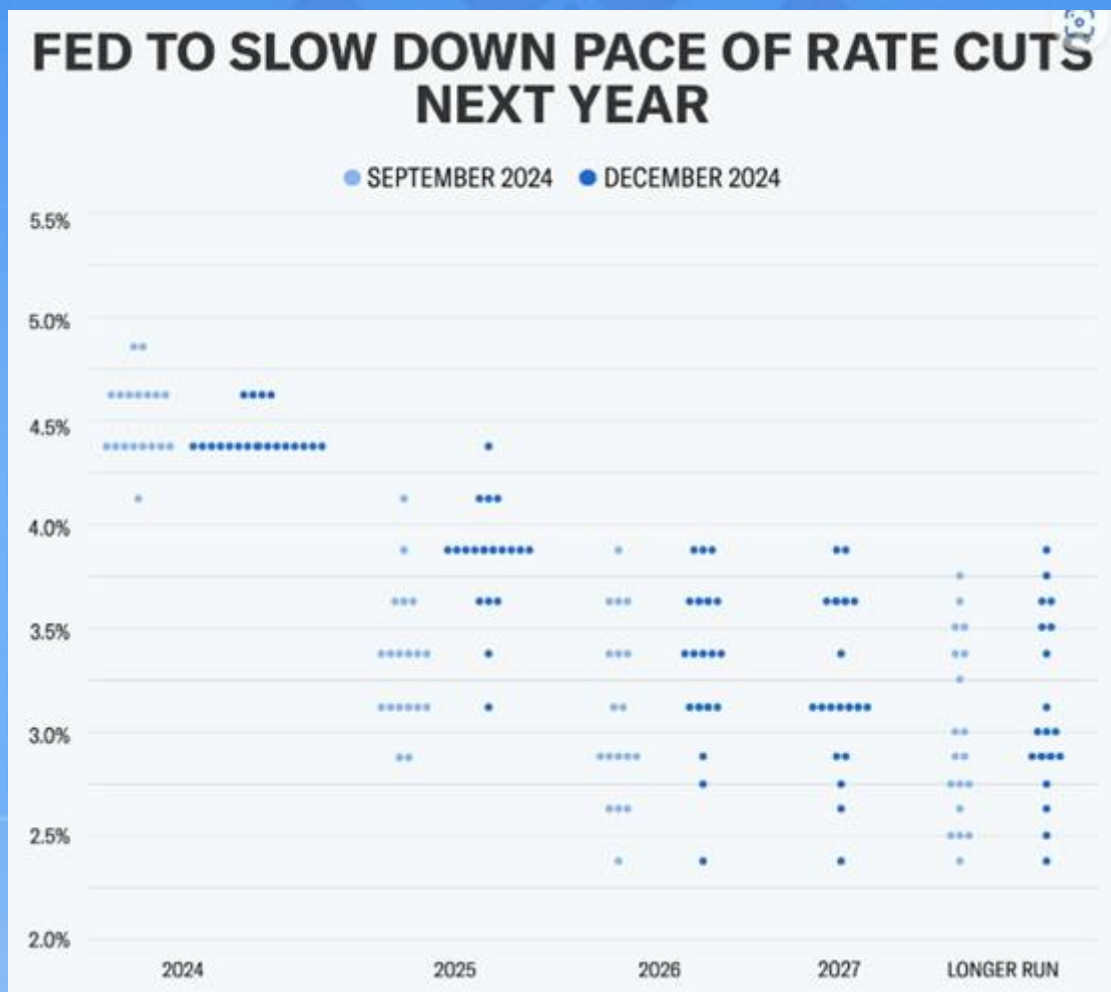

First, let's extend our heartfelt gratitude to Samuel! He not only deeply analyzed the core value of this week's stock reduction strategy but also opened up new ideas for us with his exceptional market insight. In particular, his skillful application of the " α & β -Long Strategy" brought us about 50% profit in just a 5-minute chart trade, which is truly remarkable.

Trading opportunities appear every day, but the real key lies in how to choose the more certain opportunities from them. This requires not only sharp market intuition but also strong data support and strategy execution. And this is exactly where AlphaStream 5.0 excels—by using an intelligent quantitative trading model combined with big data analysis, the system provides us with trade signals of varying levels. The higher the level, the greater the accuracy and profit potential.

Back to the market, we see that the Dow Jones gap below has nearly been filled, and the next likely move will be a consolidation and repair phase. After yesterday's sharp decline, today we are seeing a broad market rally, and this rebound presents a great opportunity to reduce stock holdings. At this stage, technical analysis takes a backseat, what's more important is to understand the Federal Reserve's interest rate cut policy and the current market sentiment from an institutional perspective.

As expected by the market, the Federal Reserve completed its third consecutive interest rate cut, lowering the rate by a total of one percentage point. However, 2025 appears to be a period of pause, with Federal Reserve officials predicting that the rate cuts will be halved compared to the forecast in September. Despite early signs of a cooling labor market, the market did not panic. Although inflation forecasts were revised upward, the overall trend remains stable. Powell's speech was cautious, emphasizing that even after multiple rate cuts, monetary policy remains restrictive.

Powell is trying to balance conflicting data and a complex economic narrative. While progress has been made in slowing inflation, challenges remain ahead. Inflation is expected to be higher next year than this year, and the economy may operate in a "higher for longer" interest rate environment, which dampens market optimism.

Trump's return has added more uncertainty to the market. New tariffs, potential retaliatory tariffs, and their impact on consumer prices have all created market volatility. However, Powell stated that the Federal Reserve will take a cautious approach, as many of Trump's plans have not yet been fully implemented, and some may never come to fruition.

In the current market, understanding market sentiment and policy direction is more important than technical analysis. Today's broad rebound may be short-lived, but continuing to reduce stock positions at high levels and reallocating funds into more certain assets like the cryptocurrency market or other growth assets could be a wiser choice. Friends, in the face of a complex market environment, we need to make rational decisions with a broader perspective. Stay cautious while keeping an eye on more policy signals in the future to lay a more solid foundation for your investment journey!

This morning, Samuel's presentation was not only refreshing but also provided an in-depth and precise analysis of our recent core strategy — "Sell most stocks, keeping only quality bottom-tier stocks." If you haven't fully grasped it yet, here are a few key points I've summarized to help you better understand and apply the strategy:

- The selling strategy is the elegant art of risk management

Our actions successfully avoided the market's sharp decline and spared us from unnecessary psychological stress caused by market fluctuations. Gracefully exiting allows us to approach the next opportunity with more composure.

- Core of the strategy: Protect profits and keenly assess risks

The first principle of any investment is to protect your profits, and our decisive reduction of positions before market fluctuations is a perfect example of this principle in action.

- Selling is not just an action, but a wise decision

Knowing when to buy is important, but knowing when to sell is even more crucial. Every sale is backed by deep insights and careful analysis, reflecting true wisdom.

- Missing the initial signal, but acting now is still a wise move

If you didn't act on the initial signal, now is still a great time to make adjustments. The market has given us a second chance, so don't miss it again.

- Investment wisdom lies in buying, but even more in selling

Many people believe that buying determines success, but in reality, the timing and strategy of selling often play a decisive role in the final outcome.

- A successful sell is a validation of past decisions

Every decisive sale not only confirms our previous choices but also rewards our judgment and courage.

- Every successful trade is a victory of precise selection and timing

The beauty of investing lies in continually validating our decisions, and each success further strengthens our confidence.

- Reducing positions is to make way for better growth opportunities

Reducing positions isn't the end; it's about making space for the next wave of growth. Holding onto quality assets is preparing for the next high point.

- Investing is a lifelong journey, love it to win it

Approach investing with an optimistic, healthy, and proactive mindset, and you'll realize it's not just a tool for wealth creation, but a way to make life better.

Samuel Turner once had a humble start on the investment journey, but today, he has achieved extraordinary success in the market, all thanks to his dedication to learning and practice. His insights today once again demonstrate his deep understanding of the market and precise judgment.

Today, I want to dive into a more advanced practical topic: mastering the perfect rhythm of trading and embarking on a journey of compound growth to brilliance.

Have you seen this inspiring chart? If we achieve a 1% growth every day, our principal will grow to 37.8 times in a year; but if we lose 1% every day, the account will nearly be wiped out by the end of the year. This vividly illustrates the essence of trading: rhythm and discipline. Every decision in trading not only affects current returns but also lays the foundation for future compound growth.

I'd like to know how many of you followed my advice and invested the funds from your recent stock reductions into this week's profit plan? How are your returns so far? If you missed out on these excess profit opportunities because you didn't pay attention to the important strategy shares in the group, I suggest you contact my assistant immediately. We will help you quickly adjust your strategy and seize the upcoming opportunities.

Especially with the ongoing effects of the Fed's rate cuts and the release of non-farm payroll data early next month, the golden opportunity to double our capital could arise at any moment! This market wave will be a feast we cannot afford to miss in our investment careers.

Friends, stay alert and stay proactive. Market opportunities never wait for those who hesitate. Every decisive action is an important step towards financial freedom. Let's embrace the upcoming investment feast with wisdom and confidence, and together, let's write our own success story!

By comparing the returns across VIP 1/2/3 groups, it's clear that even with the same trading strategy, there can be significant differences in the returns. This difference, in an extremely conservative yet convincing manner, showcases the results achieved by our "AlphaStream 5.0 Crypto Grammy (200-600%) Profit Challenge Plan" launched this week. The VIP 1/2/3 partners achieved total asset returns of 23.54%, 55.98%, and 72.01%, respectively. These results are the culmination of the efforts of all participants and the best proof of AlphaStream 5.0's stable profitability.

Friends, what conclusions can you draw from these numbers? These figures are not just a reflection of profits, but a profound testament to strategy, execution, and teamwork. They show how, under the guidance of the right strategy, the AlphaStream 5.0 system consistently generates profits. While trading does indeed require time and effort, when you see the returns, does that effort really seem like a problem?

Looking back at our trading rhythm this week, isn't it quite impressive? Just imagine, if your capital was $100,000, you've already earned a net profit of $23,542. If your capital was $1.5 million, your profit has already exceeded a million dollars. Doesn't this investment efficiency make you feel pleased and satisfied?

As we continue to seize market opportunities, I can confidently assure you that our profit data will continue to grow steadily, and our advantages will become even more significant. As mentioned yesterday, the nine advantages of large capital accounts are evident in the results. These figures once again highlight the unique position of the VIP 3 partner group. In comparison, the return rate of VIP 3 is nearly three times that of VIP 1! This difference is not just a reflection of capital size, but also demonstrates the depth of strategy execution and the ability of large capital accounts to seize opportunities in trading.

More importantly, the higher the level of the VIP partner group, the more timely and accurate the signals received, as well as the ability to employ superior capital management strategies, leading to multiplied returns. Over time, the gap between different groups in terms of strategies and signal sharing will widen further. This again explains why participants in VIP 3 are able to achieve such significant returns.

Friends, the opportunity is right in front of us, and the key is whether you're willing to seize it. Let's work together, fully leverage the potential of the AlphaStream 5.0 system, embrace even greater profits, and collectively write our own wealth legacy!

Earlier, I posted a closing instruction in the VIP3 and VIP2 partner groups. This was not only an exclusive trading signal for V3 and V2 members but also a classic move on the 60-minute chart cycle.

This trade lasted nearly 1 hour and achieved an incredible 238% return with just a 5% position size! This performance once again proves the absolute advantage of large capital accounts in trading. By properly managing position sizes, we can effectively resist the chaotic risks of market fluctuations while achieving remarkable excess returns on a solid foundation.

This is the charm of large capital accounts, greater flexibility, lower risk tolerance, and higher profit potential. Through precise strategies and scientific position management, even small position trades can generate impressive profits. This is not only the powerful support of the AlphaStream 5.0 system, but also a reflection of the wisdom and strategies we've been continuously exploring on our path to wealth growth.

Friends, such opportunities are no coincidence. They stem from our deep understanding of the market, precise execution of strategies, and the skillful mastery of trading rhythms. Whether you're a beginner or an experienced investor, as long as you're willing to join our VIP partner group, you can learn advanced trading techniques and move closer to achieving higher levels of financial freedom.

This trade has brought the total number of trade signals for the VIP3 group this week to 8, with a cumulative return of +1186% and a total asset return rate of +162.48%.

Dear friends, the results we have achieved speak for themselves. In this exciting moment, let us reflect on two important pieces of advice:

1. Join a higher-tier VIP Partner Group

In a higher tier, you'll have access to more precise strategies, advanced trading signals, and a broader market perspective. This means more confident operations, finer risk control, and greater profit potential. Imagine a rolling snowball growing larger as it accumulates, this is the power of stable compound growth. By upgrading to a higher-tier group, you will experience the exciting journey of accelerating wealth growth.

2. Under the guidance of AlphaStream 5.0, the starting point doesn't define the endpoint

Although we may start from humble beginnings, with the exceptional support of the AlphaStream 5.0 system, each trade lays a foundation for the future. It enables us to not only focus on today's success but also leads us towards a future far beyond our imagination. Data doesn't lie, and the facts have already proven that stable profits and continuous growth are not just empty talk.

Recently, I've been reflecting on an important question: how can I better help everyone achieve this million-dollar profit journey? Through conversations with many friends, I've realized that there are indeed some challenges. Some people are still unclear about the concept of "million-dollar profit," while others hope to start with $10,000 and achieve the million-dollar goal. Through the power of compounding, this is certainly possible, but it requires time. However, AlphaStream 5.0's "Millionaire Club" is destined to be a much more efficient and faster journey.

Friends, time is of the essence, and opportunities like this are rare!

Some of our friends have already achieved the million-dollar goal ahead of schedule, and in the next phase, we might set even higher profit challenge targets. By March next year, our community charity fund will be launched alongside AlphaStream 5.0 and enter official operation. This means that all participants in the "Millionaire Club" will have achieved their million-dollar profit goals before March. Frankly speaking, if you miss this target, it would not only be a personal loss for you, but also a regret for our entire community.

Therefore, I strongly encourage everyone to take this incredible opportunity seriously. This is not just an investment challenge; it is a life-changing opportunity. For every friend supporting our community, I promise to give my full effort and will not abandon anyone. If you need help, feel free to contact me or my assistant. We will be there to support you whenever you need it, ensuring you can achieve your goals.

This is a journey for dreams.

Friends, investing is not a cold numbers game, it's about belief, action, and perseverance. Today, I feel especially joyful because we not only witnessed the achievement of our profit goals but also saw the determination everyone has to move forward. If today's sharing has inspired you, I sincerely invite you to share your thoughts with me, so we can discuss the path to future wealth growth together.

Tomorrow is another day full of possibilities, with important data set to be released, and the market may experience significant volatility. Opportunities with returns of over 200% are within reach. If you're ready, please contact my assistant immediately, and let's embrace the next round of victory together!

Wishing you a pleasant day, and I look forward to seeing you again tomorrow!
