Professor Theron Vale (Helmsman)

This week's review and reflection: How can we make our life journey more fulfilling and meaningful?

I'm Theron Vale, your old friend. Weekends always carry a special warmth, allowing us to momentarily set aside the busyness and enjoy the tranquility of life. At this moment, I am sitting at my desk, with the cold wind howling outside, and the winter air carries a slight chill. But none of this can dampen the warmth in my heart.

On the desk lies my favorite books, which have been lifelong companions. Each one is like a wise friend, telling me unique stories and endless wisdom. On this cold weekend, I am especially fond of opening a beloved book and quietly immersing myself in it. The words between the pages are like the warmth of a winter fire, warming my heart and making me forget the chill of the outside world.

There is also a steaming cup of coffee on the desk, the steam rising and contrasting sharply with the cold wind outside. Holding the coffee cup in my hands, I feel its comforting warmth, and my mood naturally becomes more peaceful. Moments like these always remind me of those warm moments in life's journey. They, like this cup of coffee, make me feel the beauty of life.

Today, I opened an old book, its pages long yellowed, emitting a faint scent of paper. This familiar smell instantly took me back to my younger days, when I walked difficult paths with dreams and passion in my heart.

On this peaceful weekend, I sit by the window, quietly reminiscing about those days of struggle. Life has its laughter and tears, the joy of success and the lessons from failure. But it is these moments that make up the entirety of my life. These experiences have made me grow, made me stronger, and taught me that every step in life is an accumulation, and every challenge is priceless wealth.

After retirement, I have never been able to stop moving forward. That passionate, unwilling-to-settle heart led me to create the IAT community. I hope that through my efforts, I can light the way to financial freedom for more people. But in the journey of pursuing my dreams, I have also witnessed much suffering in the world. This often makes me reflect on my younger self, and those days that left an indelible mark on me.

I remember that cold winter, standing on the corner of Wall Street, with only a few dollars left in my pocket. The pressure of life kept me tossing and turning, unable to sleep all night. The future seemed dark, yet I refused to give up. To make ends meet, I worked odd jobs in a restaurant, working over ten hours a day just to earn a meager salary. At that time, dreams seemed out of reach, but my heart always burned with belief. I told myself, someday, I would find the light that belonged to me.

I remember once, due to a failed investment, I almost lost all my savings. During those days, I often sat alone on a park bench, contemplating the meaning of life and the direction for the future. Loneliness and helplessness were like shadows that I couldn't shake off, deeply etched into my memory.

At that time, I would tell myself countless times: "Theron Vale, you're still young, you still have opportunities, never give up on yourself. The dream is still there, waiting for you to chase it." Looking back on that experience, my heart is always filled with mixed emotions. Despite the huge setbacks, the passion within me that refused to settle for mediocrity never faded. I understood that every fall was a process of destiny building strength for me. As long as I persisted, the light would eventually come.

One day, I met an older man in the park. He noticed my confusion and pain, and he sat down to talk with me for a long time. He told me: “Theron, past failures do not define your life. Every setback is an opportunity for growth. A true strong person is not defeated by difficulties, but instead draws strength from them. As long as you don’t give up, one day your dreams will come true.”

His words were like a beacon, lighting the hope deep inside me. This elderly man was a senior from Bridgewater Associates. His advice not only helped me regain my strength but also pointed me toward a whole new path. From that day on, I made a firm decision to start over. I worked even harder to learn investment knowledge, summarized past experiences and lessons, and adjusted my strategies. Although the process was difficult, I always believed that as long as I persisted, success would surely belong to me.

It was that experience and the influence of this mentor that led me down the path of hedge funds, laying a solid foundation for everything I have today. With a deep understanding of my dreams and an unwavering passion for investment, I founded the IAT community. This is not only the culmination of my years of investment experience but also the original intention to help more people find their direction and realize their dreams.

Here, every dreamer will feel the warmth and support from the community. No matter how great the difficulties and challenges, as long as we work together, we will certainly emerge from the shadows and embrace a brighter future.

The IAT community is not just a platform for investment exchange, it is more like a closely connected family. We support each other, learn together, face market fluctuations with wisdom, and pursue wealth growth through action. Seeing every member here realize their dreams and achieve success fills my heart with fulfillment and gratitude.

Friends, the journey of life is not always smooth, but it is those winters of hardship that have brought us the warmth of today's spring. While we may not be able to control the storms from the outside, as long as we hold onto our passion and longing for life, we will always feel endless warmth and hope.

This weekend, I hope you can find your own peace and joy. Whether it's opening a book and immersing yourself in it or spending some relaxed time with family and friends, may it fill your heart with strength and inject more energy into the new week ahead.

Life is an unknown journey, with its ups and downs, its twists and turns, but it is these experiences that make our lives richer and more colorful. Let me sincerely say, it is my greatest luck and gratitude to walk this path with all of you. In this journey, our mutual support and trust are the driving forces that keep us moving forward together.

No matter how winding the road ahead may be, I believe that as long as we hold onto our dreams and support each other, we will go further and stronger. May the sunshine and laughter of this weekend fill your time, and may your heart grow stronger through tranquility and brighter with hope.

Dear friends,

Before we begin this week's review, I would like to talk to you about a profound and timeless topic: How can we make our life journey more fulfilling and meaningful?

Many people rush through life every day, striving for their goals, yet seldom stop to ask themselves: what is truly the most important thing in life? In this chaotic world, we are often swept up by the pressures and trivialities of daily life, neglecting to reflect on the essence of our existence. But when we truly stop, calm ourselves, and reflect, we realize there are many things in life that we should be grateful for and cherish.

The meaning of life is not just the accumulation of wealth or the piling up of achievements, but whether we are truly living with sincerity, and whether we are using love and kindness to impact the world.

As Mother Teresa once said, "In this world, we cannot do great things, but we can do small things with great love." Love is the core of life, it connects you and me. Whether it's the deep affection for family, the support for friends, or the care for strangers, this love makes our lives richer and warmer.

At the same time, the meaning of life also lies in continuous growth. Every challenge, every fall, is a precious gift from the universe. As Einstein once said, "Only by dedicating yourself to society can you find the meaning of that brief and risky life."

Growth is never achieved overnight, it requires us to embrace imperfection, accept the unknown, and bravely take each step forward, finding true fulfillment in the process of continuously improving ourselves.

Of course, wealth is an essential part of our lives. It determines our quality of life and gives us greater choices. But friends, the meaning of wealth is not just the accumulation of numbers, it's about helping us create a fulfilling, balanced, and valuable lifestyle. As Steve Jobs said, "You can't achieve true success by just pursuing profit. You need a sense of purpose, you need to believe that what you're doing is meaningful."

This is exactly the philosophy we strive to practice in the IAT community: not only pursuing the growth of wealth but also the fulfillment and meaning of life. Through investment and charity, we not only help ourselves but also assist those in need of support.

Life is short and precious, and every moment is worth our gratitude and appreciation.

No matter what lies ahead, as long as we carry our dreams in our hearts, with love and persistence, life will be filled with meaning and color.

Let's journey together, courageously embracing each challenge, cherishing every peaceful moment. With our wisdom and actions, let's write a chapter of life filled with meaning.

Dear friends,

In today's weekly review, I would like to pose two core questions to help everyone deeply reflect on the current market opportunities and challenges:

1. What is the current state of the stock market?

Currently, the stock market is in the repair phase after high-level fluctuations. Each rise is actually an excellent opportunity to sell and reduce positions. With inflation data still unclear and the Federal Reserve's continued rate cut expectations, there remains significant uncertainty, which undoubtedly increases the difficulty of stock market trading. What do you think about the profitability effect in the stock market recently?

2. What is the outlook for the crypto market?

With the Non-Farm Payroll data release approaching early next month and the further clarification of the Federal Reserve's monetary policy, volatility in the crypto market is expected to continue increasing. Thanks to the precise analysis and intelligent trading strategies of the AlphaStream 5.0 system, we have currently achieved a 100% win rate. Does this profitability effect make you feel the potential of the crypto market?

By comparison, I believe everyone already has the answer in mind.

Opportunities always flash before us, and the key is how we seize them. When making investment decisions, we must set aside bias and subjective emotions, and make rational judgments based on facts and data. Both the stock market and the crypto market have their unique opportunities and risks, and we need to be flexible, adjusting strategies based on market dynamics.

As for the stock market, the current high level fluctuation has significantly reduced the cost effectiveness of quality stocks. Just like Warren Buffett holding over $300 billion in cash, he chooses to patiently wait for the next buying opportunity after a market correction. The wisdom behind this is a deep insight into market cycles: the more mature the market, the fewer good opportunities it leaves for average investors.

The crypto market, however, is different.

With the return of the "crypto president," this market is welcoming a once in a century wave of emerging investment. Historically, every wealth creating movement during a Kondratieff wave cycle has occurred in emerging markets. And today's crypto market is undoubtedly the core stage of the current Kondratieff cycle.

Friends, if you haven't realized this, you may be missing the most important wealth creation opportunity of this century.

Imagine, when the crypto market is still in its high-growth phase, and large fluctuations offer the possibility of substantial returns, why struggle in the stock market at high levels? With the help of the AlphaStream 5.0 system, we have not only seized market opportunities but also achieved excellent profit performance through steady strategies.

Now is the time to take action!

Whether it's calmly observing the stock market or decisively entering the crypto market, we need to face the future with a rational perspective and unwavering belief. Trust the data, trust the facts, and most importantly, trust our own judgment. Seize the wave of the Kondratieff cycle and start a new chapter of wealth that belongs to you.

As Samuel Turner said, the recent release of Non-Farm Payroll data made BTC's volatility for the day close to the average of 7%. Looking ahead to the first Non-

Farm Payroll data of 2025, the market expects volatility to reach around 6%. By using 100x leverage, this means a single trade could potentially achieve an astonishing return of nearly 600%! This does not even include the additional opportunities created by market fluctuations before and after the release of the Non-Farm Payroll data.

A special reminder: this profit challenge plan is not permanently open. Once the completion rate reaches the established standard or AlphaStream 5.0's win rate and subscription numbers meet expectations, we may end the plan at any time. Therefore, grasping the timing and acting immediately is the wisest choice. Don't delay when the opportunity to trade is available, as timing is fleeting.
